Executive Director's Message

by Dolores Struckhoff

Dear Friends,

As I celebrate my fourth year as Executive Director I am excited by the changes we have made and the relationships we have built since I arrived.

Last week I attended my first NEMA (New England Museum Association) annual conference in Portland, Maine. I participated in several educational sessions facilitated by leaders in their fields. I was proud of how often I was able to share some of the best practices of our board and staff attained over the past few years.

In this issue of The Friends' Quarterly, our lead article is a Call for Papers for this year's Spring Shaker Forum. I hope the 2016 Forum will follow in the footsteps of last year's program with new scholar participation and new work presentations.

The Museum's collection has also increased. Since the last update, our Curator has logged in over fifty new objects from seventeen donors. Thanks to these generous donors, a one-column newsletter update has turned into a full-page article!

We have also made major changes in our event management. In the past, we have had a strong focus on weddings. Our new objective is to focus on more diverse and lower impact use of our facility space, encouraging events that can introduce new audiences to our Shaker history.

Finally, with the holiday season upon us, we are gearing up for exciting new workshops and popular classics like the Cookie Fair, and the Festival of Trees (see page 6 for details). I invite you to stop in from December 5 through December 19 to enjoy some holiday cheer!

I want to thank all of you for your commitment and ongoing support of this historic site, and for the opportunity to be part of this extraordinary Museum.

Warm regards,

Preservation Update

Timber-framing in the East Brethren's Shop has been completed and the reproduction windows have been installed so the building is ready for its new clapboards. The last four Preservation Wednesdays have been spent priming the more than 7,500 board feet of newly sawn clapboards, fortunately the weather cooperated and allowed our volunteers to paint out of doors. It is our hope to have the installation completed before winter.

2015 Annual Appeal

We are hoping to hear from each of you...your gift will make a difference!

Your investment in the Enfield Shaker Museum today insures the future of our historic Shaker legacy for tomorrow.

Recent Museum Acquisitions

by Michael O'Connor, Curator

Over the years, thanks to the generosity of donors like the following, the Museum has built a considerable collection. This collection preserves the material culture of the Enfield Shakers and allows us to interpret the history of the individuals who made up this community. In addition to being displayed for our visitors, research into the objects yields information about processes, technology, and the work and social life of the Shakers.

However, as this list shows, we collect more than just the three-dimensional objects made by the Shakers for use or sale. Family papers, correspondence, research papers, taped interviews, books, magazines, music recordings, and photographs all provide insight into the history of the Shakers. An historic article shows how the world perceived the Shakers, a new image revolutionizes our understanding of some part of their built environment, or a letter gives us insight into the business dealings or personal thoughts of the author.

If you have items that are relevant to the Shakers, we invite you to contact the Museum to learn how your donation can broaden the Museum's collection and benefit our preservation and educational objectives.

Education News

by Althea Goundry,

Education Coordinator

I am so pleased to be the new Education Coordinator at the Enfield Shaker Museum, and I want to thank the search committee, Board of Directors and Dolores Struckhoff for this opportunity. I bring a strong background in teaching the very young, older youth, and college students, as well as enabling adults to engage in creative educational experiences. I will use my Museum Education Certificate from Tufts University, Master of Education and Bachelor's in Psychology from Plymouth State University, and years of formal training and self-taught Studio Art and Art Education to build a repertoire of Shaker-inspired programs for all ages and abilities.

My goal for the Enfield Shaker Museum is to apply my passion for learning to encourage more children and adults to visit the Enfield Shaker Museum and learn about the site. I intend to continue offering established programs as well as new Shaker-inspired experiences through an array of interactive programming. My love for the outdoors will encourage programming that continues and increases use of the grounds and adjacent state property.

As I continue to learn about the Shakers, specifically the Enfield Shaker families, along with their self-sustainable communal living, ingenious inventions and entrepreneurial practices, work ethics, and devotion to a spiritual life, I am working with the other Museum staff, Shaker scholars and knowledgeable volunteers to develop a robust selection of educational opportunities.

The Museum's buildings and grounds offer many opportunities for educational programming. The Great Stone Dwelling remains the core of the Museum's interpretive tour, is also a gathering place for Shaker Sings, a welcoming place for craft demonstrations, and workshops ranging from Cooking with Herbs to creating Gift Drawings. The Ministry Shop sits on the site of the Church Family Schoolhouse, and today houses children's educational materials and hands-on activities.

My transition from the AVA Gallery and Art Center to the Enfield Shaker Museum was a smooth one. My first full week included learning about Shaker life along with the campers enrolled in the 2015 AVA/ESM collaborative summer vacation camp, Art Explorations at the Enfield Shaker Museum. On your next visit to the Museum be sure to look for the dry etching print hanging in the Ministry made by the campers.

Since then, I have spent time getting to know the staff and their responsibilities as well as the many dedicated volunteers and longtime Museum supporters.

It has been a pleasure to work closely with the core group of Shaker Harvest Festival organizers to put together a very successful event. On September 26, more than 450 festival participants (a record number) enjoyed the pristine early autumn day with many activity choices. The children rode ponies and whole families took wagon rides. Adults and children hand-pressed apple cider and made apple cider ice cream. It was delightful to see the children wearing the harvest masks and crowns they had created, while their parents and grandparents carefully guarded their handmade fairy houses.

The "Pocket Lady" had surprises for the children in her many pockets

Children and adults alike were intrigued by the demonstrating crafts people skillfully plying their trade. The delicious harvest lunch, prepared in the kitchen of the Great Stone Dwelling by our dedicated volunteers was thoroughly enjoyed by all. This amazing day was made possible by the leadership of Education Committee Chair, Nan Munsey, as well as the hard work of the entire Education Committee, over 75 volunteers and Museum staff, and the record number of festival goers. Thank you all!

Facility and Museum Events

By Anna Guenther, Event Coordinator

Looking back on 2015, and ahead to 2016

As the beauty of our site and the diversity of buildings and outdoor spaces continue to be appreciated by newly engaged couples, we are steadily filling up for ceremonies and celebrations for the coming year. We had a great wedding season and I was again fortunate to be a part of many couples' big days (or big weekends)!

Shaker Meeting Room decorated for a wedding reception.

We have continued to enjoy introducing individuals to the Museum through small and diverse events, trying not to focus exclusively on weddings. We are working with the Buddhist center, Wonderwell Refuge, in Springfield, NH to offer overflow housing for their retreat attendees, and are looking forward to welcoming back "Yoga with Patricia Walden" next August.

This Fall, for the first time we hosted a fabulous online auction on BiddingOwl.com and owe great thanks to generous donors and bidders that made it such a success. We are already excited for next year's event! The online aspect allowed Museum supporters, regardless of geography, to be involved. We enjoyed auctioning off Shaker Museum specialties and unique experiences, such as a professional photo shoot on Museum property in a pony-pulled antique carriage, and early entry to our popular holiday Cookie Fair!

Another exciting change is that we are now renting rooms on an individual basis, and this has been a great success both financially and educationally! Listing the Museum on AirBnB has exposed us to travelers who are already seeking a unique, non-traditional experience for their overnight housing. Almost all of our overnight guests have exhibited active, independent interest in the Museum, its history and its collections. We look forward to increasing this aspect of the Museum's offerings, allowing others to "accidentally" learn about the Enfield Shakers during their travel to the Upper Valley.

As we approach the holiday season, the Museum is gearing up to host the Enfield Village Association's Hometown Holidays. EVA will utilize the Great Stone Dwelling space to put on their Hometown Holiday event, a family day of crafts, cookie decorating, story telling, a local crafts and gifts market, a "One-day Café", wreath making, horse-drawn wagon rides and more!

We are also extremely excited for our second annual Festival of Trees, featuring individually decorated tabletop Christmas trees. (See page 6 for details.) We will host our Festival of Trees Gala Reception on Saturday, December 19 starting at 5:00 pm. We will serve delicious refreshments, have a silent auction for specialty artist-created Christmas tree inspired pieces and draw the winning raffle ticket for each tree!

Before then, check out the Museum's website to see our Holiday Wreath Making Workshop on December 3! As the temperatures drop, we can also start to look forward to the 2016 Snowshoe Festival on January 30. See our website for details on any of these events, or feel free to email Anna at events@shakermuseum.org
